Board Member VFP

I work as a teacher at HESAV (Haute école de santé Vaud/HES-SO) in Lausanne. I have a master's degree in nursing science and I am currently setting up my PhD training at Laval University/Québec. My main research interests include health literacy, health information research (online), personal autonomy, and e-health.

My thesis work will provide new perspectives on the concept of critical competence in digital health literacy in the field of e-health. As a VFP/APSI board member, and as co-president of the The Academic Society education in nursing, I actively participate in the promotion of nursing research and the visibility of nursing
